Fund Commentary | 29 August 2025

Market Commentary

- Summary: During August, with a seasonal lull in secondary and primary activity, the demand technical intensified, particularly in asset-backed security (ABS) markets. The narrative from macroeconomic and geopolitical headlines was mixed, but had little impact on securitised spreads. Although ABS issuance was muted, collateralised loan obligations (CLOs) remained active throughout August, with year-to-date issuance across products reaching €98.3bn. In the absence of significant primary supply, investors were active in lifting secondary offers and facilitating tightening across credit curves. UK AAA residential mortgage-backed securities (RMBS) tightened by 3-5 basis points (bp) over the month and BBB consumer paper tightened 10bp to 1.4% over Euribor. In the CLO market, secondary activity was concentrated in AAAs, with shorter bonds at 0.9% over Euribor, likely pricing in upcoming refinancings.
- ABS: August was quiet for ABS primary markets, with just €6.5bn of supply, which was concentrated in the last week of the month. As already mentioned, the demand technical continued to support spread performance in ABS markets. Bank11 issued a full capital structure German automotive loan transaction, with BBBs at 1.4% over Euribor (the tranche was nine times oversubscribed), the tightest level in the year to date. Momentum in the commercial mortgage-backed security (CMBS) market continued, with a €1bn transaction backed by UK holiday parks. The large transaction saw AAAs at 1.35% over SONIA. The pipeline for September looks significant. However, given strong flows into the market, spreads are expected to remain firm.
- CLO: During August, global CLO markets welcomed modest supply, driven by reset activity. In the European CLO market, new issuance totalled €4.7bn (including €4bn of refinancing/reset), with an active pipeline into September. The same was seen in the US, where markets absorbed $50bn of supply (including $32bn of refinancing/reset). In Europe, spreads remained firm during the month, with AAAs and BBBs at 1.3% and 3.2% over Euribor, respectively. Participation from overseas accounts in European CLOs continued to increase, as relative value remained strong. Given spread momentum, reset activity is expected to continue, accelerating reinvestment deadlines for investors. At spreads around 130bp, AAA primary CLOs looked attractive versus both investment grade corporate bonds and European mezzanine ABS. The European leveraged loan index was relatively flat, falling 0.3 points to 97.4, while loan issuance was muted.

Portfolio Commentary

- August was a quiet month for the Fund, in the absence of primary market activity.
- The Fund's positioning remains relatively liquid because of ongoing trade and geopolitical risk. The upcoming primary pipeline in ABS and CLOs should allow the portfolio managers to rotate the investment book into high-yielding primary opportunities.

Market Outlook and Strategy

September will be an active month for ABS and CLO issuance. The portfolio managers are constructive on European and UK fundamentals and view consumers and corporates as generally well positioned. However, the team is cautious about vulnerable borrowers and newer lenders, where collateral could underperform as economic data weakens, particularly the slow degradation of the labour market. The portfolio managers see the best value in AAA bank-issued ABS and CLOs, with the summer pipeline likely to create attractive opportunities. Away from AAAs, BBB and BB rated CLOs continue to stand out in terms of relative value versus corporate bonds. The technical remains healthy across securitised products and is likely to intensify, given proposed regulatory changes to capital charges for banks and insurance investors. With mixed geopolitical and macroeconomic data points, the team continues to favour established lenders with strong collateral performance and expects spreads to remain tight in the medium term. However, they are cautious about unexpected and imported volatility, and therefore favour liquid and flexible positioning. While the risks are skewed to the downside and spread upside is more limited, the high carry provided by ABS and CLOs should continue to be the main driver of returns and provide protection from mark-to-market volatility.
