What is a complaint?

A MiFID complaint is, amongst other things, a complaint to which Article 26 of the MiFID Org Regulation<sup>1</sup> applies (i.e. the provision of investment services or ancillary services to a client by TwentyFour).

What happens next?

1. Within five business days of receiving your complaint, we will provide you with a letter acknowledging receipt of your complaint that will include an outline of our understanding of the basis of your complaint and the name of your Complaints Officer
2. Your complaint will be investigated by an individual of sufficient competence who, where appropriate, has not been directly involved in the matter which is the subject of the complaint.
3. We aim to provide you with a full response within four weeks of receiving your complaint.

In the unlikely event that you are not happy with our initial response we will ask you to let us know so we can investigate further.

Where, due to the complexities of a complaint, we are unable to provide you with a full response within four weeks, we will let you know, and we will aim to provide our final response within eight weeks.

If the Firm is still not in a position to make a final response at that time, we will advise you of the reasons for the delay along with an indication as to when we expect to provide a detailed response.

What if I am dissatisfied with the final response?

Every effort will be made to resolve your complaint. However, if you are not satisfied with our response, you may be entitled to refer your complaint to the Financial Ombudsman Service ("FOS"). An 'eligible complainant' includes: consumers – defined as any natural person who is acting for purposes which are outside their trade, business, craft or profession; micro enterprises and small charities and trusts (as defined in DISP 2.7 of the FCA Handbook).

Please note that for your complaint to be considered by the FOS, you must refer the complaint to the FOS within six months from the date of our final response.

The FOS is an independent organisation, which was set up as a result of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (FSMA) to help resolve disputes between customers and financial firms.

The FOS can be contacted at the following address:
