Sustainable Short Term Bond Income

Market Commentary

August was a volatile month for markets, with early strength reversing as the Fed reiterated that its job on inflation was far from done and the threat of Russia cutting gas supplies to Europe grew. As a result, the S&P 500 was down 4% and the EuroStoxx 50 was down 5.1% for August. In fixed income, the Crossover index widened from 511bp to 588bp over the month having got to a mid-month low of 463bp, and government bonds sold off with the 10-year US Treasury yield rising from 2.57% to 3.19%.

Sentiment was positive at the start of the month due to the belief that the Fed had made a dovish pivot at its July FOMC meeting, as well as attractive valuations still available due to the steep sell-off in June. The US CPI release came in lower than expectations with the headline year-on-year figure at 8.5%, down from the prior month's 9.1% print and below the 8.7% market estimate. This was helped by falling energy prices as oil fell below $90 a barrel, but core CPI also came in lower than expected at 5.9%. This gave the market increased confidence that peak inflation in the US has passed and risk-on assets rallied subsequently.

However, a concerted effort by Fed officials followed to highlight that inflation was still well above their target. This culminated at the flagship Jackson Hole event where Jerome Powell sent the clear message that there will be "restrictive policy stance for some time" and that this may inflict "some pain to households and businesses". This sent Treasury yields higher and risk assets sold off sharply.

In Europe, the overriding topic was whether Russian gas would be cut off via the Nord Stream 1 pipeline. Another period of maintenance planned by Russia for the end of August led to fears that a total cut-off may be imminent, leading to German power trading at €500/MWH for the first time in history. This stoked inflation and recession fears for Europe, not helped by Germany's producer price index (seen as a good lead indicator of inflation) which rose by 5.3% on the month, well above consensus.

In the UK, the Bank of England raised rates by 50bp at its August meeting as expected. It also guided towards 13.2% inflation and a long, yet shallow, recession. Much of this was already priced in and thus the market reaction was muted. The UK's CPI release was higher than expected, however, coming in at 10.1% vs 9.8% estimated. This, coupled with the prospect of tax cuts under a likely Liz Truss government resulted in UK Gilts underperforming for the month, with the 10-year yield moving 100bp higher to 2.80%.

Elsewhere, Nancy Pelosi's visit to Taiwan at the beginning of the month increased tensions between China and the US and led to a short term rally in US Treasuries. Additionally, higher than expected supply in August with issuers taking advantage of more benign conditions led to some headwinds to credit spreads towards the end of the month, as the market struggled to digest the unexpected supply during the summer months.

Portfolio Commentary

The Fund returned -1.05% in August, taking year-to-date returns to -4.44%. Looking at the attribution for the month, all fixed rate sectors had negative returns, with only floating rate ABS having slightly positive returns. Spread rallied over the beginning of the month but that benefit was eclipsed by rising government bond yields and a risk-off tone that took over.

Banks were down 0.45%, driven by higher underlying yields at the front end but also suffering spread widening. Insurance fared better at -0.24%; the market has been more willing to extend confidence that insurance debt will all mature on schedule. Corporate spreads managed to hold on to more of their recovery, with senior non-financials contributing -0.13% to performance. Of the fixed rate sectors, corporate hybrids held up relative well, losing only 3bp at the Fund level, as hybrids continued to be marked higher following the disconnect between fundamentals and pricing in June.

Considering the volatility the managers expect later in the year and the potential for downside in September as the market is faced with a deluge of primary supply, the managers took advantage of the stronger market for corporate hybrids to reduce the Fund's exposure by 2% in August, reducing the overall beta of the portfolio. The Fund currently has just under 18% in its liquidity bucket, well positioned to take advantage of reinvestment opportunities.

Market Outlook and Strategy

The managers continue to expect heightened volatility in the months ahead. In a world less awash with central bank liquidity, a greater dispersion between credit pricing is to be expected but with likely dislocations as the market adapts to this new reality. This will result in greater rewards for stock picking and the managers look forward to the opportunities that higher yields can bring, though we remain cautious in the near term. The Fund will maintain its risk-off positioning as we observe how investors digest the aforementioned deluge of supply, and seek further evidence that core inflation has peaked. Again, we understand the importance of access to portfolio managers in difficult markets; we will endeavour to be as transparent as possible on our market views but please request more detail or manager meetings through your sales contacts as needed.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. The performance figures shown are in GBP on a mid-to-mid basis inclusive of net reinvested income and net of all fund expenses. Performance data does not take into account any commissions and costs charged when shares of the fund are issued and redeemed. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market and currency fluctuations and you may not get back the amount originally invested. *Inception date 22/01/2020.

Key Risks

- All financial investment involves risk. The value of your investment isn't guaranteed, and its value and income will rise and fall. Investors may not get back the full amount invested.
- Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance, and the fund may not achieve its investment objective.
- Typically, sub-investment grade securities will have a higher risk of issuer default, and are generally considered to be more illiquid than investment grade securities.
- The fund can invest in structured credit products or asset-backed securities (ABS). The issuer of such products may not receive the full amounts owed to them by underlying borrowers, which would affect the value of the fund. Credit and prepayment risks also vary by tranche which may affect the fund's performance.
- The fund has the ability to use derivatives, including but not limited to FX forwards, for hedging purposes only (EPM). This may magnify gains or losses.
- Fixed income carries two main risks, interest rate risk and credit risk: (1) Where long term interest rates rise, there is a corresponding decline in the market value of bonds and vice versa; (2) Credit risk refers to the possibility that the issuer of the bond will not be able to repay the principal and make interest payments.
- Sustainable investing is qualitative and subjective by nature, and there is no guarantee that the criteria utilised, or judgement exercised by will reflect the beliefs or values of any one particular investor or that all sustainability criteria will always be met for every investment. Negative impact on performance due to pursuing sustainable economic activity rather than a conventional investment policy is possible.

In particular, we wish to draw your attention to the following risks: Investments in the securities of emerging-market countries may exhibit considerable price volatility and - in addition to the unpredictable social, political and economic environment - may also be subject to general operating and regulatory conditions that differ from the standards commonly found in industrialized countries. The currencies of emerging-market countries may exhibit wider fluctuations. Investments in riskier, higher-yielding bonds are generally considered to be more speculative in nature. These bonds carry a higher credit risk and their prices are more volatile than bonds with superior credit ratings. There is also a greater risk of losing the original investment and the associated income payments. Investments in derivatives are often exposed to the risks associated with the underlying markets or financial instruments, as well as issuer risks. Derivatives tend to carry more risk than direct investments. Investment universe may involve investments in countries where the local capital markets may not yet qualify as recognized capital markets. There is no guarantee that all sustainability criteria will always be met for every investment. Negative impact on sub-fund's performance possible due to pursuing sustainable economic activity rather than a conventional investment policy. The structure of ABS/MBS and the pools backing them might not be transparent which exposes the sub-fund to additional credit and prepayment risks (extension or contraction risks) depending on which tranche of ABS/MBS is purchased by the sub-fund. Money market investments are associated with risks of a money market, such as interest rate fluctuations, inflation risk and economic instability.
